

Application Information Sheet

Applicants

An individual or organization from one of the categories below may apply for Grant or Information Resources:

- a Spirit-led believer who is not an ordained Christian minister but who has been called to carry out a specific ministry project, or
- a newly developing Christian organization called to carry out a specific ministry project, or
- A person with a confirmed biblical calling to ministry as an apostle, prophet, evangelist, pastor or teacher but who does not receive full time support from a church or a denomination.

Applicants who receive a micro grant (see below) will be asked to provide a brief written report on the outcome of the project no more than 30 days after completing the activities covered by the grant.

We expect that Applicants who receive grants will abide by all laws, regulations and the highest standards of Christian, moral and ethical behavior in use of any grant received. Applicants will be legally responsible for their actions conducted with grant funds.

The grant application asks Applicants to share some limited background information with The Lydia Tree so that we can better focus our fundraising efforts and services. Our survey questions do not cover sensitive issues, and the responses will be used for anonymous data collection.

Geographic Service Area

The Lydia Tree will give first preference to the Delaware Valley region (DE, PA, MD and NJ) of the USA, but we also accept applications from ministries in other locations.

Grants

Grants are made at the sole discretion of The Lydia Tree. Beginning in 2007, The Lydia Tree will award matching micro grants of up to $1000 to qualified applications that have been approved by a Grants Presbytery composed of intercessory men and women of faith with background and expertise in business, finance and ministry development. Some examples of projects that might be funded by micro grants are:

Do-the-Word Projects, which are apostolic activities that focus on disseminating principles, doctrines and teachings of evangelical Christianity. Some examples of these include

- Teaching or training for lay ministers
- Support of itinerant preaching and other missionary field activities
- New ministry development initiatives not related to church construction or other capital projects

Say-the-Word Projects, which are prophetic or “forth-telling” activities that focus on encouraging adherence, attention and reverence to the written and contemporaneously spoken word of God, as corroborated in the Old and New Testaments. Some examples of these include

- worship arts and worship renewal
- events and activities organized for the primary purpose of group intercession and prayer
- ministry to the sick
- activities that teach and encourage the corporate Church toward righteousness, holiness, worship and unity

Evangelism Projects, which focus on carrying the Gospel of Christ to all persons, wherever located or situated. Some examples of these include

- Outreach activities
- Training in evangelism
- Materials for evangelism
- Messianic outreach activities

Community Building Projects, which focus on increasing the involvement of the corporate Church, through its spiritual philosophy and activity, in the development of the greater community. Some examples include

- Faith-based social work
- Youth development
- Workforce preparedness and counseling, and application of theocratic principles to organizational dynamics and corporate culture

Please note these are only examples of project types that interest us. We may consider projects that have the same focus or purpose, but which are not listed above.

Information Resources & Networking Assistance

Please request these services if we can assist you in the following areas of interest:

- Survey information about ministry projects of similar scope and purpose in your geographic area
- Learning about how small and newly developing faith-based ministries can prepare to seek grant funding from various sources
- Networking support to connect you with like-minded individuals and organizations
- Research assistance to project leaders seeking information on ministry development (note: your requests must be limited to a specific ministry project and scope)

Please note that we will be building these resources in 2007-2009, and will gradually increase our capacity to respond to your requests.
